Review of Draft RFQ
Mr. Dill discussed the subcommittee’s work on the RFQ leading up to the version reviewed by the committee at the meeting.

There was substantial discussion regarding changes to the draft RFQ. There were questions as to whether the document drafted was an RFQ or an RFP, including the costs associated with responding to the requested information. Also discussed was the timing of sending out of the RFQ pending environmental answers and about whether to have a familiarization event first before proceeding with an RFQ.

Patrick McMahan’s review of the RFQ
There was discussion about incorporating questions and concerns from Mr. McMahan of Main Street into the RFQ. The committee spent considerable time working through his proposals and will incorporate the consensus answers into the final RFQ.

Audience of Citizens
Jeff Reilly applauded the decision to revise the document to an RFQ, stating expenses would have been too great for a developer unless they feel assured they were preferred. He also mentioned the land ownership versus leasing option as well as access to the property.
