Meeting Held at 23rd street beach to evaluate the vegetation and check on the beach plums planted 3 years ago. No Commission business was held.

Findings: Beach plums were not found. There was evidence that tides had gone through the area, probably from super storm Sandy. The site had not been visited before the storm so we don't know how the plants looked before the storm.

There was plenty of other vegetation and appeared as though it was growing just fine.

Visit ended around 7:40pm

Next meeting: Tuesday, July 9th, 2013 at the Bayside center
